EARHART OFF ON MEXICO TO NEW YORK HOP

Noted Aviatrix Took Air at Dawn on Perilous Journey

BULLETIN
Atlanta, May 8—(AP)—The Eastern Air Lines operator here reported Amelia Earhart passed over Mobile, Ala., at 1:01 P. M. Central Standard Time today on her non-stop flight from Mexico, D. F., to New York.

Mexico, D. F., May 8—Eager to blaze another new aerial trail, Amelia Earhart hopped off at 6 A. M. (7 A. M. E. S. T.) here today on an attempted 2,100-mile non-stop flight to New York.

The famed woman flier, conqueror of two oceans, lifted her heavily-loaded monoplane into the air after taxiing two miles along the three-mile runway especially prepared for her and then circled to gain altitude.

Once she was high enough in Mexico's rarified atmosphere, she headed straight across the 10,000 foot mountains between the Capital and Tampico.

Thence her course lay across 700 miles of the Gulf of Mexico to New Orleans. After her Louisiana landfall, she planned to fly straight for New York.

Soldiers Smooth Field

Hardly had dawn broken over the field, smoothed out for her by Mexican soldiers, when Miss Earhart slipped into her parachute and climbed into the big red monoplane she flew from Honolulu to California.

In the ship's tanks were 472 gallons of gasoline and 20 gallons of oil. The total load weighed 2,000 pounds.

A sandwich, boiled egg, bottle of water, bar of chocolate and container of grapefruit juice had been placed aboard to stave off hunger during the night, which she estimated would require from 14 to 16 hours.

Few long distance flights have been started from Mexico because of the difficulty of getting off the ground with heavily loaded planes at this altitude.

Recognized Danger

While recognizing the danger of crashing, Miss Earhart expressed determination to attempt the New York flight in order to "make up" for the failure of her attempted non-stop flight from Burbank, Calif., to Mexico. A bug got into her eye when she was only 60 miles short of her goal and forced her to land.

The flier planned to maintain contact with the ground by radio. As she took off, she waved her hand in farewell to the little group of newspapermen, cameramen and army fliers gathered to witness the early morning takeoff.

WOULD BE FETE

Successful completion of the 2,100-mile flight to New York would add another feather to Miss Earhart's flying cap, already well bedecked.

The wife of George Palmer Putnam, the publisher, she was the first woman to fly by plane across the Atlantic and also the first woman to fly solo across that ocean.

She was the first person, man or woman, to make two plane flights across the Atlantic and to fly solo from Honolulu to California.

Among feminine records she holds is that for airline distance national and international for a light, made August 24-25, 1932, when she flew from Los Angeles to Newark, N. J., and the women's national speed record, 174.897 miles an hour, set at Detroit in 1930.

She also holds the first Federation Aeronautique Internationale license issued to an American woman, and the fourth transport license issued to a woman.

KILLED BY TRAIN

Rockford—(AP)—Charles Carlson, 42, was killed when he was struck by an Illinois Central train on a bridge over the Rock river. Toy Johnson, 37, his companion, who escaped injury, was arrested after on a drunkenness charge.

PARK OPENS SATURDAY

Ottawa, Ill., May 8—(AP)—Starved Rock State Park, greatly improved by the work of two CCC companies, will be opened formally to the public for the 1935 season Saturday, it was announced today.

Wise Duck

Springfield, Ill., May 8—(AP)—A mallard duck apparently has the utmost confidence in Charles F. Thompson, State Director of Conservation, as a protector of wild life in Illinois.

About two weeks ago, the duck flew to the yard of the Thompson home, which is near the Washington Park lagoon, and built a nest under some shrubbery near the front porch.

For eleven consecutive days the duck reappeared in the yard, escorted by two green-headed convicts, and each time an egg was left in the nest.

Mrs. Mallard is now contentedly hovering the eggs, leaving her nest occasionally for food and water. Director Thompson will be in a position soon to contribute some first-hand information to the wild life census-takers.

SYMPATHY WALK-OUTS IN EGYPT

Over 3,000 Union Workers in Belleville Declare Holiday Today

Belleville, Ill., May 8—(AP)—More than 3,000 union workers walked away from their jobs here today as organized labor declared a holiday in protest to the hiring of outsiders by the Illinois Power & Light Company to replace its striking electrical workers.

With 12 stove manufacturing plants closed and workers leaving their jobs in other industries, Al. Towers, secretary of the Central Trades & Labor Union, said the holiday was called in protest against "the hiring of armed guards and strike-breakers" by the power company.

Acting on an order from the Illinois Utilities Commission that it resume operations immediately, the Illinois Power & Light Company this week hired new men to replace electrical workers who had been on strike for a month.

Holiday Declared
Stove molders, enamelers and stove workers, numbering about 2,000 failed to report to work in the stove plants today and declared the holiday.

A short time later 800 clothing workers in two pants plants and 300 shoe workers at another plant left their jobs to join the sympathy demonstration. Fifteen pipe-fitters and other mechanics employed at the plant were the new men who were hired failed to report for work today.

A meeting of union leaders and city officials will be held late today. Towers said the matter of the union labor protest would be placed before the officials.

Chicago Faces Threat of Milk Drivers Strike

Chicago, May 8—(AP)—Failure of a four hour conference to break a deadlock between the milk wagon drivers' union and a committee of the Association of Milk Dealers, Inc., brought the possibility of milk drivers' strike today. The association represents 100 dealers in Chicago and suburbs.

R. G. Fitchie, president of the union, said his men sought restoration of one of two $5 wage cuts taken in 1932 and a revision of the point system in selling milk. The dealers issued a statement asserting that competitive conditions beyond their control put them in no position to grant the wage demands.

L. B. Neighbour Died Last Evening

SUFFERING OF WEEKS ENDED IN LAST REST

Funeral Services to be Held Friday at Chosen Church

L. B. Neighbour, educator, civil engineer, historian and genial Christian gentleman, prominent in the history of Dixon and Lee county for half a century, passed away at his home, 516 Third street, at 9:30 o'clock last night after long suffering, during which his vitality and resistance amazed his physicians, his family and his host of friends.

Funeral services will be held at the First Methodist Episcopal church at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, the pastor, Dr. Gilbert Stansell, officiating, and with burial in Oakwood cemetery. Pall bearers will be: C. C. Hintz, E. E. Wingert, A. E. Martin, J. W. Cottright, H. A. Ahrens and Louis Meppin.

Widespread Grief

While his passing had been expected for days the news that his brave fight had been in vain brought sincerest grief to scores and scores of people, for "Professor Neighbour," as he continued to be known after his teaching days ended, was one of the community's finest men, welcomed and loved everywhere.

He was in every respect a self-made man, and had he not been possessed of an outstanding modesty he might well have been proud of the life he lived for himself.

Born in Ohio Jan. 10, 1858, he lost his father when he was less than a year old, and he barely remembered his mother. But he was of the material of which the stalwarts of the nation were made and he lived a long and extremely useful life which brought him the esteem of his fellowmen at all times.

He was thorough in all his work, cheerful and happy in his mingling with his family and fellow men, and true to his Christian faith in all his dealings.

On College Faculty

His boyhood and youth were spent in Ohio where at 20 he had become a country school teacher. A few years later he came to Dixon to take a position on the faculty of the old Dixon College, which he filled until the fine old institution passed into history. With the closing of the school in 1915 he entered the civil engineering field and advanced steadily, becoming county surveyor and later Lee county's first Superintendent of Highways.

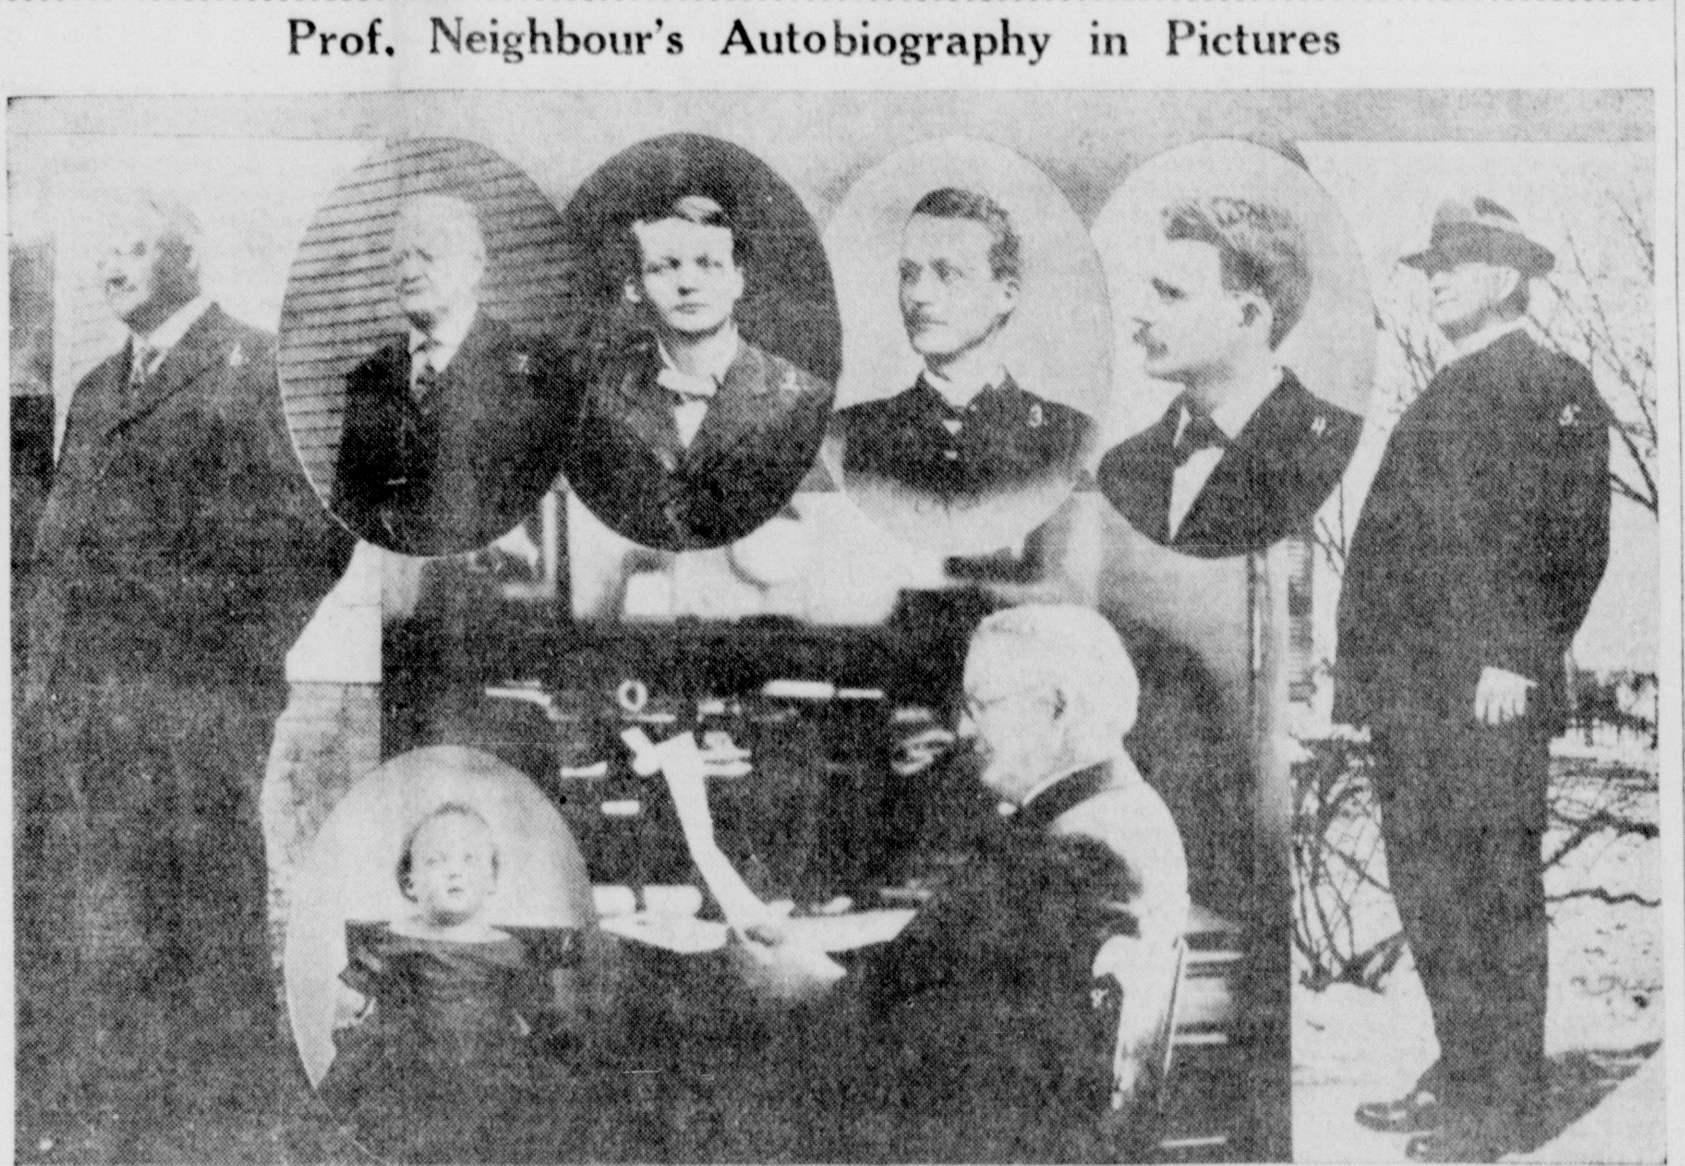

He possessed a keen thirst for local history and during his engineering pilgrimages obtained a wealth of authentic data concerning early days in this section, much of which he passed on to his fellowmen in an extremely interesting series of articles he contributed to The Telegraph and published under the caption "Away Back When."

Located Lost Graves

As a surveyor, he located the graves of United States soldiers killed in the battle of Stillman's Run during the Blackhawk War. For years, the graves could not be located as the Indians who had massacred the white soldiers had marked the burial place. He discovered the graves near Stillman Valley and a monument to the dead warriors was erected there.

He was an authority on wild

Several years ago Prof. L. B. Neighbour, whose death last night has brought deepest sorrow to hundreds of friends, collected a number of his own photographs, taken at various times during his life, mounted them as a composite (reproduced above) and himself typed the following explanatory notation under the picture:

"(1) At 1 year. Not much account yet. (2) At 20. Country teacher in Ohio, and college boy. 'When all was possible, for all was then untied.' (3) At 27. Instructor in Dixon College. (4) At 37. Still a school man. (5) At 50. County surveyor and in general practice. (6) At 60. County Superintendent of Highways. (7 and 8) Approaching 70. Pretty near time for the chloroform."

FILIBUSTER IN HOUSE PLANNED BY REPUBLICANS

Adopt Method to Secure Action on Anti-Election Fraud Bills

BULLETIN

Springfield, Ill., May 8—(AP)—With action blocked by a Republican filibuster, the House of Representatives recessed today an hour after minority members started dilatory tactics in an effort to force a vote on the Schnackenberg bill for permanent registration.

Work was at a standstill and nothing was accomplished. Consideration of the relief bills, exempt from the filibuster, was not scheduled until the 4 P. M. session.

Democrats succeeded in suspending the rules, after a long rollcall, and dispensed with the minority demand that the 18-page journal be read in full.

In the dilatory motions that followed, Speaker John P. Devine and Majority leader Benjamin Adamowski called for a recess rather than stay in session when nothing could be accomplished.

Permitted to speak out of order in the 81 to 57 rollcall on the motion to recess, R. J. Branson, Central Illinois Republican, said he was opposed to delays, but was ready to filibuster in the cause of honest elections.

Springfield, Ill., May 8—(AP)—Threats of a Republican filibuster hung over the Illinois house today with delays in prospect for even measure except those having to do with relief for the unemployed.

Republicans in a caucus decided to filibuster, giving right of way to relief, in an attempt to force a vote on the permanent registration bill introduced by Elmer J. Schnackenberg.

THREE SLAYERS THUMB BIBLES: DEATH IS NEAR

Leonore Bank Robber-Killers Will Die Early Friday

Joliet, Ill., May 8—(AP)—Three slayers, condemned to die within 36 hours for the murder of a bank cashier in the attempted robbery last January of the Leonore, Ill. State bank, today thumbed through prayer books and Bibles as the state prison clock ticked off their remaining minutes.

The three, John Hauff, 32, of Chicago, and Fred Gerner, 27, and Arthur Thielen, 42, of Rockford, Ill., will go to the electric chair at 1 A. M. (Central Standard time) Friday, Warden Frank D. Whipp announced.

The death house inmates steadfastly refused to see any visitors except relatives and spiritual counselors. They did not converse even among themselves, although near enough to do so.

Gerner and Thielen, brothers-in-law, buried themselves with prayerbooks supplied by a prison chaplain. Hauff read his Bible.

To See Wife, Baby
Tomorrow Hauff expects the final visit of his wife and "Sunny" their two-year-old boy. Mrs. Hauff has driven to Joliet from Chicago daily with the child.

Thielen has been visited frequently by his wife and nine-year-old daughter. Tomorrow Mrs. Thielen will come alone to say goodbye to her husband, she told prison officials.

The third prisoner, Gerner, is a bachelor. His only visitors have been relatives of his brother-in-law, Thielen.

The executions are to take place in the order in which Warden Whipp received their commitments—Thielen first, then Hauff, then Gerner.

Estimate Illinois Share of New Work Fund: $309,758,000

St. Louis, May 8—(AP)—Illinois would receive $309,758,000 of the government's $4,880,000,000 work-relief appropriation, on the basis of an estimate by the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce.

The estimated allocation was based, a report of its research department said yesterday, on President Roosevelt's statement that the huge fund would be distributed "to localities or relief areas in relation to the number of workers on relief rolls in those areas."

The thirteen mid-western and southern states in the St. Louis trade territory may receive $1,500,000,000 under the work relief program, according to the estimates.

STANDING HEAD: HOUSE ADJOURN-ED UNTIL 4 P. M.

Administration Delayed Vote on Sales Tax Increase Again

Springfield, Ill., May 8—(AP)—Taking additional time in their drive for 102 votes, administration leaders postponed until the 4 o'clock session their attempt to pass the three per cent sales and utility tax bills, through which Governor Horner is attempting to raise money to reopen relief stations.

Democratic spokesmen privately said they were within "striking distance" of the two-thirds emergency clause majority for the increased sales tax, which got 88 votes a week ago.

Speaker John P. Devine announced that the relief bills would not be called until 4 P. M. The morning session was delayed while Alex Wilson, the governors administrative assistant, conferred with Devine and Democratic floor leaders.

The delay of five hours gave the Democrats an added opportunity to seek support of representatives who sat silent last week or opposed the tax increases.

Think Chances Good

The belief was expressed on the Democratic side that, with a few more votes needed, the bills had a good chance to pass so as to become effective immediately.

Threatened by a state-wide march on Springfield by an army of unemployed and beset by statements of officials that relief clients were moving "closer and closer to the hunger line," the house confronted the crisis with the knowledge that the federal government had given an emphatic "no" to requests for relief money unless the state raises $33,000,000 monthly as its share of the burden.

The sales tax bill, increasing the tax from two to three per cent, was the medium through which state officials, led by Governor Henry Horner, hoped to give final to the relief problem some time today. The governor said he confidently hoped for its adoption after an army of five hundred demonstrators marched on the state Capitol yesterday, threatening to repeat their demonstration on a larger scale later in the week unless their demands are met.

Technical Amendments

Almost at the same time that several scattered demonstrations were being held in Chicago, and nearly a score of persons were detained, the lower house adopted several technical amendments to the sales tax bill, providing that the higher tax rate become effective as

ILLINOIS LEFT OUT IN COLD IN MAY ALLOTMENT

California, With No Request, Is Only Other Ignored

Washington, May 8—(AP)—President Roosevelt said today there would be no hard and fast rules on loans to cities under the $4,000,000,000 work relief program.

He said the policy would depend on the various projects and the financial situation of cities.

Meanwhile, high officials asserted that the government is planning to take command of relief administrations in the states by July 1.

May relief funds were still withheld from Illinois as Harry L. Hopkins, the relief administrator, allotted money for additional states—New York, Pennsylvania, Iowa and Vermont. This left only Illinois and California, which has not yet submitted an application, without grants for the month.

Still Insistent

Hopkins said he still insisted that Illinois, where exhaustion of relief funds has brought threat of hunger marches on the state capital, must contribute $3,000,000 a month before receiving further grants.

Most of the present state relief directors probably will be retained, it was said, but they will be responsible to Washington instead of to the governors.

Declining to be quoted by name, the officials who forecast this change in policy said that recent controversies over the work relief program had given several of the states were "partly" the reason for its adoption.

Another explanation given was that the centralization of relief forces would provide a more responsive organization to speed the $4,000,000,000 work relief drive just now getting under way.

"It will be a change in form rather than substance," one official said. He recalled that control of the billion-dollar civil works administration campaign slightly more than a year ago was centralized in the capital.

Caesarian Operation Saved Tropical Fish

Chicago, May 8—(AP)—A mamma guppy and her 20 little guppies owe their lives to Dr. Leonard S. Klein, a dentist who turned to piscine obstetrics and performed a Caesarian operation. "I could tell that Mrs. Guppy was suffering," Dr. Klein said, and she was bulging at one side. So I took a lancet and made a slit about the size of a pin hole. The 20 babies poured out into the water."

Officials at Shedd Aquarium said that they knew of no previous case in which a tropical fish survived such an operation.

SO SPONSORS MOVE TO KEEP BILL TIED UP

Inflationary Measure Passed Both Houses of the Congress

Washington, May 8—(AP)—President Roosevelt indicated today a veto message on the Patman bonus bill would be sent to congress within a short time.

A while before, Speaker Byrns predicted the house would override a veto but that the senate would sustain the president. A two-thirds vote is required to pass a bill over presidential disapproval.

The measure for paying off the bonus by issuing $2,000,000,000 of new money was passed yesterday by the senate. The house previously had approved the bill, generally described as inflationary.

No Doubt of Veto

Little doubt was left, however, that a veto awaited the legislation and it appeared obvious that this action would be taken quickly. Roosevelt observed that he might not take advantage of the ten days allowed by the constitution for action on the bill.

The senate's action, however, advanced the bonus drive farther than it has ever gone before. It was the first time since the original bonus law was passed more than 10 years ago that a bill providing for cash payment had gone through both houses of congress.

To Keep Bill Tied Up

In view of the White House reaction, Senator Thomas (D-Okla.) entered a motion as soon as the senate convened to reconsider the vote by which the Patman bill was passed in order that it could not be sent to the White House today and returned immediately with a veto.

Thomas explained to newspapermen his motion would hold up action on the bill. He said several supporters of the Patman measure on both sides of the Capitol were out of the city, including the house author, Representative Patman (D-Tex.).

"We are going to keep it tied up until we are ready for the next step," he said.

ITALY PREPARES DOUBLED FORCE IN EAST AFRICA

Rome, May 8—(AP)—Approximately 100,000 troops moved toward concentration points and ports of embarkation today as Italy prepared to double the forces it has sent to East Africa since relations with Ethiopia became strained.

Newspapers reported the latest mobilization order under banner headlines today. Their editorials condemned the "anarchy" which they said exists on the Ethiopian border and asserted Italy is compelled to place in her East Africa colonies "a powerful instrument of war."

In the Chamber of Deputies yesterday Alessandro Lessona, Under-secretary for Colonial Affairs asserted that measures must be taken against recurrence of the border incidents which have embittered the relations between Italy and Ethiopia.

A government communique described the mobilization as Italy's answer to "the steps of mobilization taken by the Ethiopian government."

Another New Yorker Signed Up by Bruno

New York, May 8—(AP)—Former Magistrate Charles A. Oberwager announced today that he had been retained to defend Bruno Richard Hauptmann in his appeal from conviction for the slaying of the Lindbergh baby.

Oberwager said that he is entering the Hauptmann case "with a great deal of delight."

"I am going to deal with the case purely legalistic way," he asserted. "I do not intend opening up all the sewers in New York City in connection with the case, and the sociological aspects of the case are to be subordinated to the legalistic."

STUDENT BOXER DEAD

Cold and Rain Stop Illinois Field Work

Meteorologist States

Springfield, Ill., May 8—(AP)—

Cold and rainy weather during the past week virtually stopped field work by Illinois farmers and retarded the growth of vegetation, the weather bureau said today in its weekly crop report.

"Sunshine and warmth are necessary to promote growth and permit intensive field work," said Meteorologist E. W. Holcomb.

Precipitation during the week averaged 2.99 inches, with snow and freezing temperatures late last week in parts of the northwest being injurious to young plants.

"Streams have risen sharply and water is standing in many low places," the report said. "Little corn has been planted and considerable ground is unprepared for planting, especially in the south. Winter wheat in many areas has made rank growth x x x

"Oats are nearly all sown and mostly up to a good stand. Spring wheat is all sown and up and making good growth. Meadows and pastures are improving rapidly. Fruit is very promising."

soon as the measure is passed and signed by the governor. The bill was then placed on third reading for the showdown fight today.

The house also amended a companion measure to the sales tax on utilities would become effective immediately and approved an amendment exempting the utilities from paying tax on power when it is sold not for resale but for consumption. Rep. John Peppers of Aurora, a Republican, presented the utilities amendment, saying that in many instances the margin of profit in power sold to factories was less than the three per cent tax provided for in the measure. This bill also was sent to third reading for consideration today.

Horne said it was "difficult to understand the amendment introduced by Peppers to exempt public utilities in part from paying a tax for relief. It is regrettable that more than two score members of the house, who last week refused to vote for the bill for the relief of starving fellow citizens, were so ready and anxious to vote for this boon for the utilities."

Nineteen Detained

Nineteen persons were detained as a result of the Chicago demonstrations. Most of those seized were accused of disorderly conduct. Among those detained were Karl Lockner, a Communist leader, and Meyer Levin, writer and magazine staff employee. Mrs. Levin, who was also detained, asserted that her husband had attended the demonstration merely to collect material for his work.

WINNING PLAY
(By Joseph Fort Newton.)

LITTLE Pete Suffradini was a crab man on the Penn football team. For three years he served as a "chopping block" for the Varsity team, without complaint, never asking for a place in the sun.

But he had personality and made friends and his faithfulness was rewarded in a way he had never dreamed of. For his willingness to serve he was made a member of the "all time team upstairs."

In the last two minutes of the Cornell-Penn game, time out was called by Penn, solely that little Pete might be put in the game for just one play before his college career was over and done.

The game was at one end of the field and Pete, obeying orders, trotted out on the field at the other end. A big husky guard "covered him" for Pete had a broken arm from the last scrimmage.

There he stood for the one necessary "official play" and then left the field for good amidst thunders of applause; a cheer he had never expected to hear as a member of the "Varsity team." And the radio announcer told millions on the air the story of Pete and his play.

This Pete gained the coveted letter on his sweater, a letter that means to the college man what the ribbon of the Legion of Honor meant to the men in the War. He had won the one winning play.

It is a far cry from little Pete to Lord Curzon, who lost the winning play to win the Premiership of England. He "told terribly" and knew himself to be a Premier in capacity, but lost it by intrigue.

For a time he was broken hearted, and thought his whole life a brilliant failure. He had spent a lifetime preparing for the great office which, after all, he was not to hold due to a fluke.

Little Pete was more lucky; his prize came as a surprise, all the more happy because he had not even dreamed of it, much less planned for it. Lord Curzon planned, prepared, toiled and lost out.

Of course, if a man loses a prize it means much to know that he is worthy of it—just the same we are glad little Pete got his play!

ROOM COLOR SCHEMES UTILIZE NATURE'S EFFECTS

London—(AP)—Nature is being used to inspire color schemes, not only for clothes but also house decorating purposes.

An example of bedroom color-harmony takes the hedgehog cactus with its strawberry-colored flower. The walls are palest gray-green and the ceiling and woodwork deep cream. The woodwork might also be a slightly deeper gray-green than the walls, if preferred. A deeper gray-green carpet can be relieved with a cream pattern. The bedspread takes the shade of the lighter strawberry color of the flower petals, and the curtains use the light and deep strawberry shades and greens patterned on a cream background.

Accessories may introduce, along with deep green and strawberry, the golden yellow of the flower's center. Frosted glass lampshades can be faintly tinted with dull pink or golden yellow.

GREAT MOTHERS Leah Salomon Mendelssohn

FOR five minutes every day, Leah Salomon Mendelssohn gave a music-lesson to her two older children, Felix and his sister Fanny, not knowing that some day her teaching would bear fruit in such music as "Elijah," the "Hebrews' Overture," and the famous orchestral setting for Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream."

Leah Mendelssohn was herself an accomplished musician, though she played and sang only in private and for friends. She was richly cultured. In addition to her native German, she spoke and read French, English and Italian. She could, and did, read Homer in the original Greek.

Although her family possessed considerable wealth, she was simple both in her dress and her manner. Born on March 26, 1777, of a prosperous Jewish family in Berlin, she was married in 1804 to Abraham Mendelssohn, second son of Moses Mendelssohn, the foremost scholar of his time.

Her son Felix—christened Jakob Ludwig Felix—was born February 3, 1809. After his early music lessons, Felix was turned over to masters who perfected his education on the piano and the violin. Both Frau Mendelssohn and her husband supervised the musical development of their gifted son, who at the age of nine years made his first public appearance in concert.

Frau Mendelssohn was also distinguished for her tact and wit, which helped to make memorable the Sunday evening musicales at their luxurious home in the Leipzigerstrasse, Berlin. Here she gathered about her an illustrious circle of friends, musicians, diplomats, and literary men.

As Felix' career in music developed, they were often parted. He went to England, accepted posts as orchestra director in various German cities. After his father's death and his own marriage, professional developments enabled him to return to Berlin. He and his wife took a house opposite the Mendelssohn home on Leipzigerstrasse, and the old-time happy family life was resumed.

Then again engagements took him away from his mother, with whom, as always, he exchanged loving letters.

On December 4, 1842, he received from the King of Prussia an official

Roosevelt Uses Innate Good Taste

Washington, May 8—(AP)—President Roosevelt yesterday reminded the country that next Sunday is Mother's Day and said it was unnecessary to issue a proclamation to call attention to such a day.

Roosevelt put aside a Senate resolution calling for a Mother's Day proclamation. He said: "On the ninth day of May, 1914, President Wilson, in response to a joint resolution of the Congress, issued a proclamation directing government officials to display the United States flag on all government buildings and inviting the people of the United States to display the flag at their homes or other suitable places on each second Sunday in May as a public expression of our love and reverence for the mothers of our country."

"In the intervening years the observance of Mother's Day has assumed a deep and growing significance. It is not my purpose this year to issue a special proclamation on the subject as I believe that the attention of the American people will be so devoted to the cause of that day that repeated formal action on the part of the chief executive is unnecessary."

"I prefer to think that the tributes which will be paid to mothers will come simply and spontaneously from our hearts."

INDULGENCE OF TALENT IS HIGHEST REWARD

In John T. Flynn's recent discussion of the plan to control the profits of munitions makers in war time, there was an extremely significant little story.

Flynn contrasted the war service, and the monetary rewards, of two Americans—Eugene G. Grace and Beno T. Wirth.

Grace, as head of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, made ships and steel for Uncle Sam's fighting forces. In the year 1918 he was paid a bonus of slightly more than $1,300,000.

Wirth was a metallurgist in the Philadelphia mint.
The government needed to learn how to make a platinum gauze, essential in the manufacture of up-to-date shells, and this was a German secret which our munitions makers could not discover.

So the problem was handed to Wirth, and he proceeded to solve it—thereby rendering to both government and industry a service of incalculable value.

For this service he received a pay of $60 a week, without bonuses. Furthermore, he worked so hard that he undermined his health and died, and the government did not even pay a death benefit to his family.

The story points its own moral, as far as the rewards to which munitions makers are entitled are concerned.
It points it so clearly that nothing further needs to be said.

But it also has a peace-time application. It is a simple and obvious refutation of one of the hoariest lies in human annals—the assertion that self-interest is the only thing that will make a talented man exercise his abilities to the fullest.

There are a good many things that can make a man give every ounce of his energy and ability to the job at hand; but the most compelling motive of all is one we usually forget about—the simple fact that he does it because he likes to.

To possess some special ability in any form of human activity is not merely to enjoy a privilege; it is to feel the urge of duty, also—the blind but inescapable duty to exercise that ability to its fullest.

There is a queer quirk in human nature which keeps a man from being contented unless he is kept busy at the kind of thing he can do best.

That is true in all fields of activity. Musicians and baseball players, steel plant executives and novelists, ship captains and farmers—they find their chief reward in the doing of the job and not in the pay check.

To pretend that you cannot get a man of talents to exercise those talents unless you give him more money than he can possibly spend is to libel human nature.

UNBELIEVABLE FACT

There is something about this "crime castle" at Warwick, R. I., which almost makes one believe that real life has been copying the movies.

The whole set-up has a faintly unreal, stagey flavor.
An isolated mansion full of secret compartments in which stolen gems are concealed; a hidden arsenal for use of highwaymen; a network of understandings and agreements by which the occupants of this castle lent a helping hand to gangsters engaged in robberies in far-away cities; the hint that gangland death sentences were passed and executed in the old house, with the victims' bodies buried somewhere beneath the basement—doesn't all this sound more like a movie scenario than sober fact?

Fact, unfortunately, is what it really is. The whole thing testifies eloquently to the elaborate organization and financing of modern crime—and to society's need for an equally well-organized and financed police group to combat it.

JUST TO SPEED THE DAY

The outbreak of revolt in the Philippines, trailing disorder and bloodshed through half a dozen provincial towns and resulting in upward of 100 casualties, sounds like something that should have happened 25 years ago, when our army was busy suppressing the bloody and costly "Philippine insurrection."

There is, however, a vital difference. The insurrectors of a generation ago were fighting for a lost cause.
They had no chance to gain the freedom they demanded.
Today, however, freedom is actually within sight.
To gain it, a patriotic Filipino needs—not courage, but simply patience.

That factor should make all the difference. We are on our way out of the islands. Disorders like the current ones can be nothing more than minor disturbances.

They do not, this time, present us with a problem of far-reaching and expensive implications.

It is the world's misfortune that statesmen often forget that power cannot lie in armaments. Rather it lies in the beliefs and ideals of peoples.—Adolf Hitler.

If the federal government continues to try to absorb all the business of governing this country in every way, it will become impossible, and will fall of its own weight.—
Jouett Shouse.

Artists produce themselves publicly too young. They think of earning money instead of satisfying the soul with mysterious beauty. They wish to arrive so as to be applauded.—Edward Johnson, Metropolitan Opera executive.

Twelve years spent in bitter competition for recognition at school, with success defined in terms of beating somebody else, results in producing such mean little individualists as curse the world today.—Dr. Bernard Clausen of Pittsburgh, Pa.

We see Scouty's lasso shot was good.
He cried, "Hurray! I knew I could."
His lasso'd dropped around the stump that he had planned to ring.
"Now, to the other side I'll go,"
said he. "It will be hard, I know, but I am always brave enough to try most anything."

"I hope the vines are very strong.
If not, my plan will turn out wrong.
Now, first of all, this end I'll tie tightly to a tree."

"I wish the Tynimints were here.
They'd see I have no thought of fear. But, if my long vine lasso breaks, they all would laugh at me."

Soon everything was nicely set and Scouty thought, "Gee, I'll get wet when I try traveling, hand o'er hand, across the little stream."

"If I drop off, I'll swim ashore, or else I'll very loudly roar for help and trust to luck that someone near will hear me scream."

He grabbed hold of the vine and then both of his small feet dangled when he swung his little body out and started on his trip.

The vines swayed down, but didn't break, and Scouty said, "It will not take me long to reach the other side. I hope my hands don't slip."

Right near his feet a fish jumped high. "Don't make me laugh, right now, or I will drop right off and join you," shouted Scouty with a grin.

"If you are flopping 'round for me, please stop! I do not want to see your funny tricks, 'cause I have no desire to flop right in."

Then came a funny little duck and Scouty shouted, "My, what luck! That fellow, too, is trying to stop me, but I'll hang on tight."

He kept on swinging through the air. His actions gave the duck a scare. It turned around real quickly, and then swam right out of sight.

WHAT THE NEWS WAS AROUND DIXON IN YEARS GONE BY

50 YEARS AGO

A seven-year-old son of Willis a horse and buggy stolen from the corner of Peoria avenue and Second street where it had been left ing chickens from the Nachusa Orphanage, was held to the grand jury by Police Magistrate Kent.

their medical libraries to the Dixon public library. The Phidian Art club has also donated about 100 volumes on art and history.

FORMATION OF LAKES

The most common cause of the formation of lakes is the distribution of drainage by glacial action.
Lakes are generally abundant in mountain regions or within those areas which have been covered with ice.

DAILY HEALTH

STORY OF A GREAT DISCOVERY

Dr. George R. Minot, who, together with Doctors Whipple and Murphy, discovered treatment for pernicious anemia, got the idea while an interne that something in food might be of advantage to patients afflicted with this difficulty.

In his Nobel prize lecture at Caroline Institute at Stockholm he recited the various steps taken in developing the treatment. Actually his acquaintance with pernicious anemia dates farther back than his internship days, for when he was going to school he had opportunity to observe the disease in his father's wards at the Massachusetts general hospital.

In 1915 the original idea on the dietetic basis of pernicious anemia was fortified by the observation that some of the symptoms and signs of this disease were also to be seen in certain other diseases.
Other observations reinforced the dietetic idea.

Thus it was found that pernicious anemia patients also had either a diminution or total absence of hydrochloric acid in their stomach secretions. This, too, led Minot "to wonder if this disorder of the digestive system had something to do with the condition."

In this connection it is interesting to note that the possible primary role of the stomach functions in this disease was suggested as far back as 1880. But its true signif-cance was not fully demonstrated until 1928.

At about this time a number of isolated observations on the so-called pathology of pernicious anemia were united to form a more complete picture of this disease condition. The patient's "poverty in blood cells," the condition of his bone marrow, his skin lesions, his disorders of the nervous system, his digestive symptoms, etc., seem to be due to the profound disturbances he suffered in his metabolism, that is, the utilization of foods eaten.

At this stage, then, the massive feeding of pernicious anemia patients with liver was instituted, and the results were so encouraging that further treatment was developed.

ANIMAL AND INSECT TRIALS

Animal and insect trials were common in Europe in the Middle ages. Before regular courts of justice were established, notes a writer in the Washington Post, offending animals were delivered to the person whom they had injured or his relatives for punishment. Domestic animals were tried in secular courts and wild animals and insects in ecclesiastical courts. Of domestic animals prosecuted were dogs, sheep, pigs, horses and bulls.
Among creatures haled before ecclesiastical courts were rats, mice, locusts, weevils, flies, mosquitoes snakes and caterpillars.

THE TRUE BLOND

A true blond according to an anthropologist's definition, is one who does not tan when sunburned, but blisters and peels.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

He shall judge Thy people with righteousness and Thy poor with judgment.—Psalms, 72:3.

The just, though they hate evil,
yet give men a patient hearing;
hoping that they will show proofs that they are not evil.—Sir Phillip Sidney.

IF YOUR BREATH HAS A SMELL YOU CAN'T FEEL WELL

When we eat too much, our food decays in our bowels. Our friends smell this decay coming out of our mouth and call it bad breath. We feel the poison of this decay all over our body. It makes us gloomy, grouchy and no good for anything.
What makes the food decay in the bowels?
Well, when we eat too much, our bile juice can't digest it. What is the bile juice?
It is the most vital digestive juice in our body. Unless 2 pints of it are flowing from our liver into our bowels every day, our movements get hard and constipated and 4% of our food decays in our 28 feet of bowels. This decay sends poison all over our body every six minutes.
When our friends smell our bad breath (but we don't) and we feel like a whipped tomcat, don't use a mouthwash or take a laxative. Get at the cause. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills which gently start the flow of your bile juice. But if "something better" is offered you, don't buy it, for it may be a calomel (mercury) pill, which poisons teeth, gripes and scalds the rectum in many people. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name and get what you ask for—25¢. ©1934, C.M.Co.

SWEETBREDS

Sweetbreds usually are the thymus glands of calves or young cattle. The sweetbreds in lambs are small and seldom marketed. The pancreas of animals is sometimes called sweetbreds.

PRESIDENTIAL FLAG

President McKinley started the idea of a Presidential flag. He designated blue, with the Great Seal of the United States in embroidery. Theodore Roosevelt changed it to red when he came into office, but he stands alone in his preference. Every other President has desired blue.

There are many mountain peaks measuring around 30,000 feet in height on the moon.

AN EARLY ELECTRIC LAMP

One of the earliest electric lamps in general use was the Nernst Glower, which had a glowing tube that had to be warmed — "lit" — to start the current and that could be "blown out" — by blowing until it cooled the point where it lost its conductivity — Arvie W. Gordon, Madison, Wis., in Collier's Weekly.

Blackbirds, thrushes, larks, and other birds were sold for food in London during the World War.

OSTRICH RUNS IN CIRCLE

Although the ostrich is credited by some authorities as being the fastest runner in the animal kingdom, its remarkable speed never seems to take it very far. For it always runs in a circle, with the result that a less speedy pursuer can easily overtake this powerful bird "by cutting cross-lots."

Plant life furnishes the oxygen which all animal life in the ocean must have to breathe.

BECKER'S MOVIE AND TALK MADE HIT WITH CROWD

Nearly 300 Attend Dixon Rod and Gun Club's Bob Becker Evening

Bob Becker Night, sponsored by the Rock River Valley Rod and Gun Club of this city, was a very successful venture last evening and almost 300 men and women, hunting and fishing enthusiasts as well as lovers of outdoor life, assembled in the banquet hall at the Elks club house to hear the explorer, author and authority on outdoor life, Becker, outdoor editor for The Chicago Tribune, was the guest of honor, and he gave in a very interesting manner, excerpts from his ventures from the head waters of the Amazon to the mountains of Alaska.

Attorney H. C. Warner presided as toastmaster and after the sumptuous banquet, presented the guest speaker. In his introduction, Mr. Warner stated that "nothing appeals to the American citizen more than outdoor life."

Knows Rock River

Becker opened his remarks by stating that he was by no means a stranger on Rock river, having been brought up at Beloit, Wis. He spoke of the fine reception tended himself and his Chicago Tribune Boy Scout troop in this city and along the Rock river a few years ago as the boys enjoyed a canoe trip down the river. He recounted some of his experiences while gathering specimens for the Field Museum of Natural History at the headwaters of the Amazon river. The location changed to the mountains of Alaska and returned to the lakes of Canada.

The speaker diverted to the subject of dogs on which he is an authority and stated that he considered the trained German shepherd dog the most valuable to mankind, because of its ability to direct the actions of the blind. He related numerous interesting incidents showing the intelligence of these valuable animals.

Showed Movies

At the close of his interesting talk, three reels of motion pictures which he had brought from his library in Chicago were shown. The first of these Becker had taken along the French river in Canada where he spent some time fishing; another was taken in the northern Rockies on a hunt for wild mountain goats and sheep and the third was of a moose hunting trip to Alaska. The program was a most enjoyable one and the Rod & Gun club were highly commended for their interest in bringing the noted author to Dixon to be heard by the lovers of outdoor life in this vicinity. There were delegations in attendance from Mendota, Compton, Ashton, Harmon, Amboy, Franklin Grove, Oregon and Polo.

To Discuss Laws

President Don Ortgiesen has called a special meeting of the members of the Rock River Valley Rod & Gun Club and all sportsmen who are interested in several changes planned for the Illinois fish and game code, the meeting to be held at the Elks Club Thursday evening at 7:30. Copies of the proposed changes have been furnished the club officers by Senator George C. Dixon and all of the changes will be discussed and recommendations filed at the meeting tomorrow evening. Any who are interested in the drafting of new fish and game laws whether members of the organization or not, are invited to attend this meeting.

Encouragement In the Spring Grind an Inspiration

Chicago, May 8—(AP)—Ford Frick, president of the rival National circuit, can call it treason if he wills, but Ted Lyons says the Pittsburgh Pirates are the one big reason for the sudden surge of Chicago's White Sox, last year's American league door mat that is fluttering grandly from the top of the standings today.

And Ted, a great pitcher who has been one of the few bright lights during the long famine at Comiskey Park, should know most of the secrets.

"The Pirates started it all," said Ted. "When we started playing them in spring training, we looked like about the same ball club with a few improvements here and there notably in catcher Luke Sewell. Then we started to belt the Pirate pitchers and win. In spring training, most players on teams getting beat merely growl, but the Pirates were different. One player after another came over to us and told us we were a great ball club. Pie Traynor was one. He said we had the makings. So did the Waners and the others."

All Became Encouraged "What happened? All of us became encouraged, we worked harder and we got to believing in ourselves again. And we haven't stopped. Today, we think we can challenge any ball club and beat them all."

Lyons also paid high compliments to Manager Jimmy Dykes and his methods of running the club.

"I'm not saying we're going to win the pennant," he resumed, "yet I don't think we're just a flash in the pan either. We've always had plenty of power, but now we are getting some good pitching, notably from young men. Whitehead? I think he's the most promising pitcher in the league. If the rest of us, the veterans, can come through now, we'll keep on surprising this league all season."

Lyons was asked how it felt, for a change, to know that he had a good team behind him when he climbs on the pitching mound. He replied:

"It's a great feeling. I feel like I have an even chance with my pitching opponent. It's rather tough on a pitcher, you know, when he knows that he can't give up three or four runs without getting licked."

Race for Big Prizes Close END OF FIRST PERIOD GREAT SUCCESS. ALL WORKERS SHOW BIG GAINS IN VOTE SCORES

Race is Unusually Close. Extra Prize Announcement Intensifies Interest and Determination to Win.

Swinging into line all atingle with high hopes and ambition, candidates in The Telegraph's $4000 campaign have swelled their vote totals to new wonderfully high marks and from now on to the finish it will be a pretty exciting race between the many contenders.

The first period of the campaign, which closed Saturday night was a tremendous success. Scores of subscriptions were turned in and hundreds of thousands of votes were issued and every active worker profited.

It is a strange coincidence, too, and something unusual in affairs of this kind, but the leading contenders who are striving for high honors and the big cash awards, benefitted so equally during the period just closed that not without checking every subscription and vote could today's leaders be determined.

The competition, therefore, so far as the respective standings of the candidates is concerned depends entirely upon the results obtained between now and the finish as to who the ultimate winners will be.

DOUBLE OPPORTUNITY

The struggle for supremacy will be fought out during the few remaining days of the second period, which ends Saturday night, May 18th. Just a few days later the entire campaign ends and all the big prizes will be distributed.

The best offer of the campaign ends a week from tonight. During this time subscriptions count double value. First they count more votes towards the regular prizes than they ever will again after the second period is over. Next each subscription turned in before next Wednesday counts the maximum number of points towards the special awards announced yesterday. Subscriptions turned in now truly carry double value as they never will again in this campaign.

It is entirely possible for some candidate during these next six days to not only corral the winning votes but at the same time earn an extra $100 while doing it.

ADDED INTEREST

Several candidates who have been lower down in the vote scores are preparing to go after one of the extra cash prizes. Others who have been working for some time have expressed their intention to work for one of the extra awards. From all indications the liveliest part of the campaign is now at hand, certainly it is the most important time of the campaign and the candidates who realize this will make the most of the balance of this period and especially from now to a week from today.

SECOND PAYMENTS

Second payments on subscriptions given earlier in the campaign will count for thousands of votes now. Candidates should remember that second payments do not count for extra votes during the last period of the campaign. This is the time to call back on those who earlier in the campaign subscribed for only a short time, and secure an extension on their subscription. Extended subscriptions are credited with votes according to the schedule in effect when the first payment was made.

The present bonus given for new subscriptions is 40,000 on one year. In a few days this will be reduced to 20,000 and the final few days there is no bonus given for new subscriptions. Too, new subscriptions count for many more points on the extra prizes, but only until next Wednesday can the big points be had.

100-PER CENT EFFICIENCY COUNTS

A few more laps and the course will have been run. Only a short time remains to choose between victory and defeat—success or failure. Opportunities in plenty present themselves today to those candidates sufficiently determined to realize them. The candidates who stay with the job and work will win. Read the following, it may help you as it has others.

"Tis the coward who quits to misfortune,
'Tis the knave who changes each day;
'Tis the fool who starts like a whirlwind
Then throws all his chances away.
The time to succeed is when others
Discouraged, show traces of time;
The battle is fought on the home stretch,
And WON, 'twix the flag and the wire."

NEW DEAL LEGAL EXPERTS PONDER COURT REVERSAL

Effect of Rail Pension Invalidation on New Schemes Uncertain

Washington, May 8.—(AP)—New Deal lawyers are embarked upon a detailed study of the supreme court's rail pension decision to determine whether it had dealt a body blow to NRA and the Roosevelt social security program.

The aftermath of the 5 to 4 ruling wiping the giant pension plan off the law books found:

1. Some NRA officials saying that a reading of newspaper summaries indicated to them that the court majority had frowned on the relatively wide interpretation of interstate commerce on which NRA is based. They said closer study might change this view.

2. High administration leaders indicating that the social security bill now in committee in the senate, may be revamped in the light of the new ruling.

Effect Uncertain
Several senate legal authorities said the decision foreclosed any further legislation for railroad pensions at least as long as the supreme court membership remains unchanged.

They were not certain, pending further study, what the effect on NRA and the security bill might be. After a hurried reading of the decision, Senator Borah (R. Idaho) widely known as a constitutional expert, said it "settles that particular case, but it is not much of a guide for congress. I do not regard these 5 to 4 decisions important when it comes to determining national policy."

Despite the views of Chief Justice Hughes and several senators that the decision closed the door to any railway pension legislation, Senator Wheeler (D. Mont.) and A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, said new legislation would be sought.

Oh, the social whirl
Is a snap for the girl
Who cooks the modern way,
Who has learned to freeze
With the greatest of ease
Desserts that are stamped "O. K."

ARE YOU perhaps looking for a new, extra-special dessert that will make your guests exclaim over it while they eat and beg for the recipe when they are through? In the entire lexicon of American cookery there is no more special dessert than ice cream, and the most special of all ice guests for dinner and you easy with marshmallows low ice cream

ing a package of marshmallows always on your pantry shelf! Marshmallows are really extraordinary enough in themselves. Try adding strawberries to an ice cream which does not require stirring or any other attention all the while it freezes, whether you use a mechanical refrigerator, or an ice cream freezer, or simply a mold in an ice-salt pack. The mold must have a well-fitting cover, sealed with adhesive tape.

STRAWBERRY MARLOW
1 cup crushed 20 marshmallows fresh strawberries ½ cup water 1 tablespoon ½ pint cream, stiffly beaten orange juice
1 tablespoon sugar

Wash, hull and crush the berries. Mix them with the orange juice and sugar, and let them stand for 30 minutes. Meanwhile steam the marshmallows with the water until they are liquid and smoothly blended. Add to berry mixture and cool. When quite cold and beginning to stiffen, combine with the stiffly-beaten cream. Pour into refrigerator trays and freeze without stirring. If strawberries are not available at the moment, you need not suffer through inability to try the recipe! Use crushed pineapple instead, with these differences:

PINEAPPLE MARLOW
16 marshmallows ½ pint cream,
1 cup canned ½ cup water crushed pineapple stiffly beaten crushed pineapple

Steam marshmallows over hot water with the pineapple until they are liquid. Cool the mixture. When it is cold and slightly stiffened, combine with the whipped cream. Pour into containers and freeze without stirring.

The DARK BLOND

CHAPTER XLVIII

SERGEANT MAHONEY turned to his men. "Get Vera Duchene, he said. "Pick up Bob Calse. Tell Cynthia Happ she's wanted at headquarters at once. Pick up the liquor dealer at 539 Torrence avenue. He's a chap about 38, with a white mustache. Clear the corridor. Search this room and 509 with a fine-tooth comb. Take that man to rear quarters and make him talk."

Sergeant Mahoney bent over Dick Gentry's body. He pulled things from the pockets—cash, a wallet, an envelope, a memorandum book. He thrust these things in his own pockets, nodded to Millicent. "You and Norman come with me," he said.

Sergeant Mahoney wasted no time on the elevator. He took to the stairs. Millicent and Norman followed him. Once in his car they heard the scream of the street as the car tore through the streets around a corner, slammed on brakes.

"This is Dick Gentry's apartment," Norman Happ said. "Exactly," Mahoney told him. "Your father wasn't kidnapped by force. Gentry could have lured him to his apartment. We'll see what we can discover."

He fitted a key into a lock and opened a door, switched on lights and ran across the room.

Jarvis Happ, apparently lifeless lay sprawled on a bed.

Sergeant Mahoney leaned over him, put an ear to the man's chest. Jarvis Happ, apparently lifeless lay sprawled on a bed.

Sergeant Mahoney got to his feet strode to the telephone, jerked the receiver from its hook, said, "Police headquarters." While he waited for connection, he turned to Norman Happ and said, "He's alive, but drugged. I think they gave him an over-dose at the least, but we can save him if we can get him to a hospital in time."

INTO the telephone he said, "Head quarters?" Sergeant Mahoney Rush an ambulance, Doctor Cathart, a stomach pump, and complete equipment for treatment of drug poisoning to Apartment 904, 6413 Cherry street. I want them here within five minutes."

He slammed up the receiver turned to Norman Happ and said "Start talking. Tell me everything you know about the woman in the black ermine coat."

Norman Happ said, "Why, there isn't much to say. I've seen her several times. She comes to call on Cynthia and astrology. She . . ."

Sergeant Mahoney nodded. He went into the kitchen of the apartment, pulled open cupboard doors. "Millicent," he said, "make some strong black coffee. The doctor will want some when he gets here. I'm going to talk with Norman."

Millicent went to the kitchen made coffee, and had no more than brought the pot to a boil when she heard the sound of feet in the corridor.

A moment later the kitchen door opened and a bald-headed, short, thickset individual with a smiling face said, "Have you some coffee?"

Millicent nodded. Sergeant Mahoney said, "Pull him through, Doctor. These folks are going with me to headquarters. Come on, you two."

His dynamic personality dominated everything and everyone. Unquestioningly, Millicent and Norman accompanied him to his car.

"Your father will live," he said to Norman as he started the motor and snapped in the clutch. But he said nothing more until he slammed the car to a stop in front of police headquarters.

"Come on," he said. He led them down a corridor filled with stale air, jerked open a door, and they saw Cynthia Happ sitting in queenly state; Bob Calse white, frightened, and worried; Vera Duchene, trying to look nonchalantly haughty and falling lamely.

SERGEANT MAHONEY turned to one of his men. "Did you get the suitcase full of books from the hotel?"

"Yes, sir."

"Was the shorthand notebook of this young woman with them?"

"Yes, sir."

"Bring it," said Sergeant Mahoney. "I can read those notes."

Bob Calse said, "It might interest you to know that the little baggage you're being so chummy with is the woman who's wanted by the police. She's the Murder Girl and the dirty little . . ."

Sergeant Mahoney stepped forward, snatched his hand across Bob Calse's mouth and said, "Shut up until you're spoken to."

Cynthia Happ screamed. Bob Calse went deathly white.

A detective appeared with Millicent's shorthand notebook.

Sergeant Mahoney opened the book, glanced significantly at Millicent, squinted his eyes at the short hand and said, "Yes, I can read that perfectly. Now then, you folks listen to Drimgold's confession, the last thing he dictated before he died."

Millicent knew the man was bluffing but, had she not known, he would have fooled her. His voice sounded exactly as though he were reading:

"I, George Drimgold, am about to confess complicity in the murder of Arthur Calse. I didn't kill him, never drank. Therefore . . ."

A door opened. The man to whom Sergeant Mahoney had nodded stood on the threshold with the proprietor of the liquor store. He nodded, smiled, turned to look at Vera Duchene and said, "That's Phyllis Faulconer." His eyes went on to Cynthia Happ.

"That," he said, "is the woman in the black ermine coat who bought the whisky."

Cynthia Happ got to her feet, her lips bloodless, her eyes wide with panic. All of the surface complacency fled from her. She gave one wild scream, then pitched forward in a faint.

Norman Happ's arm circled Millicent's waist. "Come, Sweetheart," he said.

Silently he led her from the room.

"Let's get out of here," he said. "This has made me sick—to think that Cynthia would have . . ."

He broke off, shrugging his shoulders, and said, "Oh, well, she's made her bed, let her lie in it. Come on, Dear, you're going with me to the hospital. I want to be there when Father regains consciousness. I want him to see his new daughter-in-law."

He caught her to him. His lips pressed hers. With a sigh, she yielded herself to him, and suddenly the atmosphere ceased to be oppressive. The world seemed filled with a rosy glow.

(THE END.)

AMBERS RESTS TITLE HOPES; BOUT FRIDAY

Ambition To Fight Canzoneri is Real- ized

New York, May 8.—(AP)—A little more than three years ago Luigi D'Ambrosio, with $2 in his rousers, hitch-hiked from Herkimer, N. Y., to see his idol, Tony Canzoneri, turn back the lightweight title bid of the slender Negro, Kid Chocolate. A $1.10 ticket landed him way up in the balcony at Madison Square Garden.

Friday night Luigi D'Ambrosio, now known as Lou Ambers, and hailed as the Herkimer Hack saw, will have the choicest seat in the Garden, right in the ring with this same Tony Canzoneri. Instead of cheering his idol he'll fight him 15 rounds for the light weight championship of the world.

A lot of things have happened in the fight business since the night young D'Ambrosio saw the great Canzoneri, one of the most pleasing and capable warriors of this generation, turn in a superb boxing exhibition to ward off Chocolate's challenge.

A year and a half later, D'Ambrosio had progressed so far along the Canzoneri trail that he was hired as a sparring partner of $5 a day to help condition Tony for the Garden match in which he knocked out the fading Chocolate in two rounds. He was even better a few weeks later when he sparred with Tony, getting him ready to beat Cleto Locatelli. Then their paths diverged.

Fame Slid Away
Tony slid off from his greatest days, and Barney Ross won his title. D'Ambrosio, only 22, one of nine young D'Ambrosios, started to get ahead.

Thrillless, clever, courageous, gaining punching power with every fight, he belted a path through the lightweights beat Harry Dubinsky of Chicago and Sammy Fuller of Boston, and the New York state athletic commission said he must be next to fight Ross for the championship.

But Ross resigned his title, so now by official edict Ambers finds himself fighting Canzoneri for the crown and a favorite at 7 to 5.

Canzoneri, with 125 fights behind him, a big farm housing the parent Canzoneris, and all the Canzoneri relatives at Marlboro, N. Y., a fortune estimated at $300,000 tucked away in bonds, thinks this may be his last fight.

"I might just as well retire," he says, "if kids like that are beginning to catch up with me."

HOW DUST BLOTS OUT WORLD AS INKY PALL ROLLS UP

Black ruin billowing up out of the southwest's great dust bowl here rolls slowly over the Panhandle town of Pampa, Tex., a suffocating wall of dust shutting out daylight and moving on to wreak havoc on the sparse crops remaining in the blighted district. Like an impenetrable screen of smoke it appears in this remarkable picture, with buildings standing out in relief against the inky blackness. Rain has brought some hope to the stricken area, but over a vast zone the pall has left devastation in its wake, with scores of cases of pneumonia aggravated by the choking dust.

Sublette Troop Will Plant Garden Sell Eggs

PRESS CLUB ITEMS
Troop 110, Franklin Grove
By Courtney Schafer

The Scouts met Monday evening and rehearsed some of the first aid demonstrations they gave at the Men's club banquet, Tuesday night, April 30. Demonstrations of the tying of triangle, cravat, and spiral bandages on different parts of the body were given by several teams of Scouts. Another team demonstrated artificial respiration. The talk given by Mr. Boltz on Scouting was very much enjoyed.

The kindness of the Men's club in entertaining the Scouts was greatly appreciated by each Scout who attended. The May issue of Boys' Life magazine is now at the library and may be obtained by anyone having a library card. The magazine was given to the library by Troop 110.

Fifteen Scouts have registered for 1935 and there are but a few to register before the new charter will be ordered. There was no meeting May 3 because of the two meetings attended by Scouts earlier in the week.

All those wishing to complete Part I of the Elements course will find the session of considerable help. In addition to the Elements course, a course in trail making, map-making, handicraft, outdoor games, and nature study will precede a big camp fire program. The course is open to any Scoutmaster, Assistant Scoutmaster, troop committee member or any father of a Scout.

RIVERS HAVE FANCY NAMES

Majunga, Madagascar, is situated at a point where the Betsiboka river empties into the Bombetoka bay. They go in for fancy names that rhyme in Madagascar. Two other rivers with unusual names are the Maevarana and the Taribihina. The last word means "uncrossable," the river being clogged with crocodiles. On one of the shore trips the passengers are carried in flanges, which are chairs swung between 10-foot poles carried on the shoulders of stalwart natives. The main street of the town is called the Avenue d'Amboy.

WHITE SOX ARE NO LONGER BIG LEAGUE JOKERS

Whitehead Pitching, Others Hitting Way To The Top

By HERBERT W. BARKER
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)
The extraordinary early-season drive of the Chicago White Sox had ceased to be a laughing matter to the rest of the American League today.

Topsy-turvy standings are the rule of major league races every spring but the White Sox evidently aren't fooling Jimmy Dykes' rebuilt club, with a crop of rookies who outshine those of any league rival, threaten to be troublesome, to put it mildly, all year.

The pale hose's 4-3 victory over the New York Yankees yesterday served not only to bolster Chicago's hold on first place but marked their ninth successive triumph in their own park. Back in the old days of White Sox baseball glory there may have been a precedent for such a string but that's doubtful.

Powerful hitting and good pitching, especially from the rookie John Whitehead and the veteran Ted Lyons have carried the Sox to the top of the standings, a game and a half in front of the Cleveland Indians and 2 1-2 games in front of the Yankees and Boston Red Sox who are tied for third position.

Lyons on Mound
Lyons was on the mound yesterday and the old campaigner set the Yankees down with seven hits to outpoint Vernon Gomez, ace southpaw of the invaders.

The White Sox slammed Gomez for two runs in each of the first two innings with the rookies, Rip Radcliff and Vernon Washington, lending a hand. Radcliff doubled to start the game, went to third on Al Simmons' pop fly double and scored on Washington's single. Gomez then walked Appleby and Dykes to force in another run.

In the second, Radcliff again doubled and successive singles by Hayes, Bonura and Washington produced two more runs. Lyons was in real trouble only in the eighth when Tony Lazzeri clouted a homer with one on to account for the last two Yankee runs. The victory was the Sox' 12th in 16 games. A year ago they won only five of their first 16 engagements.

The Champion Detroit Tigers

topped the Philadelphia Athletics, 3-3, for their fifth victory in a row to remain a game and a half behind the fifth place Washington Senators who dropped the St. Louis Browns, 7-3.

Tommy Bridges held the A's to five hits, one a fluke home run by Wally Moses with one on in the eighth. The champions nicked Sugar Cain and Jonny Marcum for 12 hits of which Billy Rogell contributed three.

Washington pounded out 13 hits in giving the Browns their eighth consecutive defeat with Buddy Myer and John Stone each collecting four. Earl Whitehill, meanwhile, held the Brown batsmen well in check.

Rain wiped out the other American League game and the entire National League schedule.
